

Class Exercise

You are trying to pick a jury of 12 people from a group of people. The group has already been screened so that everyone is legally acceptable. However, you cannot have any two people on the jury who know each other. So the question is whether or not it's even possible to do this.

Question: Formulate this as a graph problem.