

Summary (so far)

- To count the number of objects, design an algorithm to generate the entire set of objects. Check if each object is created exactly once (if not, you will have to do a correction later).
- The algorithm's output can be seen as the leaves of a decision tree, and you can just count the leaves.