The base case

The base case is the first value n_0 for which you want to prove the statement true.

Often $n_0 = 1$, but not always. Be careful to check.

Sometimes you need to establish several base cases.

Typically the base case is done properly.

But sometimes it's missing!