Tips on Polishing your Paper

- Start with the core messages you want to convey in the paper and expand your paper by following the core story
- Try to convey the core messages at different levels so that people with different knowledge background can all get them
- Try to write a review of your paper yourself, commenting on its originality, technical soundness, significance, evaluation, etc, and then revise the paper if needed
- Check out reviewer's instructions, e.g., the following: http://nips07.stanford.edu/nips07reviewers.html (not necessarily matching your conference, but should share a lot of common requirements)
- Try to polish English as much as you can