

Clicker Question

You are holding two balloons filled with air – a large balloon and a small balloon. What can be said about the relative pressure of air in each balloon?

- a) The pressure in the larger balloon is greater because there are more moles of gas.
- b) The pressure in the smaller balloon is greater because there is less space inside the balloon.
- c) The balloons have essentially the same pressure.