

The Mole Concept: Why?

- We can count by weighing (relative masses).
- Reactions occur by number of particles, we must deal with masses, so we must have a way of converting between number and mass.
- Atoms/molecules are very small!