

Net Neutrality Akin to Freedom of Speech?

These questions are central to the issue of “net neutrality” that has been a topic of recent political discussions.

Do customers have the right to find content and use services that suit their tastes?

What does “free speech” mean if a small number of large companies control what can be “heard” on the Internet?

