

Should Control be Left to the Service Provider?

The same questions might be asked about other services, too.

Consider the last question

- in terms of search engines:
- is a search engine allowed to sell your ability to find URLs?

In other words, is it acceptable to put paid advertisements at the top of a search response? As the only response?