

Techniques Can Support Human Analysis, Too

To be clear, some techniques, such as grouping points into clusters, can be used for data science, which helps humans to make sense of large amounts of data.

The line is a little blurry.

