

Book Learning Backfires

In this image, you see a pod preparing to <spelling omitted> with the International Space Station.

For years after reading my first science fiction novel, I failed to connect this type of meeting with the written word.

Rendezvous was not a word my parents used with me.

