

Estimate Highly Biased by Experience

What if we ask two people:
how big is an average dog?

- Pat, who grew up in an apartment in downtown Chicago, and
- Jan, who grew up on a farm?

Pat will probably give a smaller size than Jan.

Why?

Their experience with dogs is likely to differ.