

Virtual Humans Don't Have to Be Digital Twins

Of course, we have enough data to emulate humans without starting with any particular human.

In 2021, the Replika app started creating virtual companions in response to individual humans, in order to provide a source of comfort.

The AI can text you, call you, or even hang out with you in augmented reality (you choose the AI's appearance, outfit, and so forth).