

Humans Have Little Intuition for Dynamics

For example,

- humans drive badly in ice, snow, and even light rain
- because they have no idea how these adverse conditions
- affect the friction between their tires and the road surface.

