A Server's Clients Make Use of that Service

Other computers can then communicate over the Internet, contact that computer, and use the service.

These computers are the clients for that server.