

Local Procedure Call (LPC)

- Call from one function to another function within the same process
 - Uses stack to pass arguments and return values
 - Accesses objects via pointers (e.g., C) or by reference (e.g., Java)
- LPC has exactly-once semantics
 - If process is alive, called function executed exactly once