

- Last time we studied many sets with cardinality \aleph_0 .
- Are there sets with larger cardinality?
- Turns out ... yes!

What this means for a set A

- There is an injective function $f: \mathbb{N} \rightarrow A$
- There is no bijective function $f: \mathbb{N} \rightarrow A$