

Think of it this way:

The total flux is the same in both cases (just the total number of lines)
The flux through the right (left) hemisphere is smaller (bigger) for case 2.