

Electric Potential is like Height (E points down hill for positive charge)

The electric potential, however, is difficult to picture because it's hard to imagine the quantity of energy a particle will have at any given position.